

DANA CLAXTON

Dana Claxton is an interdisciplinary artist who works in film, video, photography and performance art. Her artwork has been shown in Canada and the United States and her installation work is held in the permanent collection of the Vancouver Art Gallery. She is an active member in the arts community and has participated in panel discussions, juries and advisory committees. She has curated exhibitions in Vancouver, Calgary, Toronto and Ottawa. Recently she directed a documentary project for the National Film Board and co-chaired an aboriginal film and video festival in Vancouver. Ms. Claxton resides in Vancouver.